MEMORANDUM FOR:

25X1A

There are undoubtedly many views and ideas as to the direction in which we should be moving in order to meet the requirements of the upcoming years. I would appreciate it if you would give me the benefit of your best ideas, operationally and/or administratively speaking, as to subjects for study and consideration for the continuing health and improvement of the Office of Communications. As you know directly from your own experience, we are involved in an ever more complex and competitive existence within and outside of CIA. To meet the competition we must be able to project beyond the handling of the daily problems and to this end we solicit your assistance.

Director of Communications
